What drives the Early Childhood Practitioner?
What does Activism look like?

"They always say time changes things, but you actually have to change them yourself." - Andy Warhol

Together we can lead the change

Time to stand up for the children and families we work with and for our profession.

#qualitycosts
Whose needs are we meeting?

Parents  Professional  Children
Hopeful Developments

• New opportunities for EY Practitioners to engage in multidisciplinary contexts, to advocate for individual children

• A Curriculum Framework which places the child at the centre and reiterates the importance of valuing diversity, engaging with parents and supporting children’s well being

• New Activists and Advocates are emerging from ground-breaking work aimed at building the EY profession