

Early childhood practitioners as advocates and activists

Early Childhood Workforce Initiative – Webinars – 3 May, 2017

Emma Byrne-MacNamee,
Early Years Programme Manager of Northside Partnership

Emma has worked across the Early Childhood sector in Ireland for over twenty-five years. She is the Early Years Programme Manager at Northside Partnership (www.northsidepartnership.ie), Dublin, Ireland and currently manages a programme called Strengthening Foundations of Learning, which is part of Preparing for Life, an early intervention project, based in an area of socio-economic disadvantage in Dublin. Emma is passionate about the need to provide both training and on-site mentoring to early years' practitioners, so that they can be supported, through respectful partnerships, to implement effective, reflective, pedagogical practice within their settings, leading to better experiences and outcomes for young children.
